ABSTRACT

Teacher-Student relationship is the most important, the most core relationship in physical education teaching, at the same time it is also the most active party of the physical teaching process. This paper presents the relationship between teachers and students in physical teaching in the new period is mainly of its "symbiosis", the essence of which is the relation of the people. It embodies the ultimate concern and respect to life. It develops a new way of understanding the relationship between teachers and students for physical education workers. It also provides theoretical support for promoting the teaching reform of physical education.

INTRODUCTION

Relationship between teachers and students is a kind of relationship between teaching and learning in the education teaching process. It contains the position of teachers and students, role and mutual attitude, etc. To balance the relationship between teachers and students from the education teaching activities is also a reflection of social relationships in a certain historical stage. The essence of the relationship between teachers and students in the final analysis reflects the human relationship and the relationship between teachers and students in physical education teaching is a relationship between PE teachers and students, its essence is supposed to be sporting a psychological relationship between teachers and students, reflect the teachers and students in the process of interpersonal communication, looking for meet their social needs a state of mind, as long as through verbal communication, learning, cognitive activity emotional communication and interaction[1]. The Angle of man’s existence inspects the historical evolution of the relationship between teachers and students, so the relationship between teachers and students under the new social environment of the relationship between teachers and students should be a symbiotic relationship between teachers and students.
WHAT'S "SYMBOTIC RELATIONSHIP BETWEEN TEACHERS AND STUDENTS"

The nature of the relationship between teachers and students in the final analysis is the relationship of the people, and the relationship of the people is a dynamic development process. In ancient times, due to the limited level of productivity, human’s main activities are to maintain their own survival and development of material production, in such an environment, personal attachment, rely on sticks to maintain school discipline, Asian students in the state of physical and mental development, is the main feature of the feudal society the relationship between teachers and students, In a unified teaching content and the way for the students and ignore students' personality development. Along with the further development of productivity, in modern society, interpersonal relationships are no longer limited to the region, in the process of education teaching, the relationship between teachers and students is seen as the relationship between human and objects, students become the object of understanding, education is the main body of teaching activity. With the progress of the society the development of science and technology, people’s life rhythm is becoming more and more quickly. The production activities way of human also changed dramatically, the theory of "symbiosis" is put forward to adapt to the trend in this era, reflect the inner demand, at this stage the individual person is the person's self-consciousness and the identity of class consciousness, its core is to point to pay attention to the existence of the individual person, pay attention to main body symbiotic interaction between teachers and students[2]. Specific to the sports teaching, it contains two meanings: first, the coexistence of physical education teachers and students is as a whole in the whole teaching process. Physical education teachers has more experience and adept skills than students, the level in the sports skills, methods, sports health, physiology and so on various aspects are higher than students.

Therefore, physical education teachers' act as a teaching organizer, guide and multiple roles such as consultants in the whole process of sports teaching; The students and PE teachers are completely equal in personality and spirit. They and their outlook on life and values, world view can freely and democratically into classroom teaching of sports, learning knowledge in the process of sports teaching is revealed to me.

Second, the physical education teachers and students, on the premise of respect each other differences, continuous exchanges. For example, during a gym, a teacher taught the behavioral essentials, into the process of students' practice, emerged as a result of the understanding deviation, caused incorrect action, or meet the technical problems such as difficult to master, need the guidance and help of physical education teachers, sports teachers and students will take place "symbiotic relationship between teachers and students.

THE ESSENCE OF THE SYMBIOTIC RELATIONSHIP BETWEEN TEACHERS AND STUDENTS

Traditional education emphasis on instrumental value too much, but neglected the educated personality development. In many cases, the physical education teachers techniques are only concerned with how to teach, how to practice, and didn't take students as a whole, fresh, with various development needs of individual life; In the sports classroom teaching, the teacher's eyes only "discipline", the interpretation of "technology" and "individual life", and students are not clear about their own learning direction and goals, its essence is the neglect of students' life dignity, can't deeply understand the meaning and purpose of existence and make the education from the fountain of life. The symbiotic relationship between teachers and students "thought that education should not only cultivate social needed talents, more attention should be paid to the understanding of individual life value, avoid the traditional education too much emphasis on" teacher center "and ignore the individual life concern for students. Its essence is democratic personality, it is neither a dual subject of concern, also is not the subject and object relations, also is not the relationship between human and objects, but democratic equality between teachers and students, the development and progress of mutual understanding and similarities and differences between relationships[3].

THE CHARACTERISTICS "SYMBIOTIC RELATIONSHIP BETWEEN TEACHERS AND STUDENTS" IN THE SPORTS TEACHING

Different from the traditional relationship between teachers and students the symbiotic relationship between teachers and students has the following characteristics.

Interaction and Cooperation

The kind of relationship between teachers and students interaction based on physical education teachers and students is good, in a timely manner, the premise of two-way communication. Traditional sports teaching, physical education teachers only care about whether professor technique standard, and didn't take students as a living independent being, which has the various development needs.

The knowledge of teaching passing by is a one-way, linear process. And the symbiotic relationship between sports teachers and students' is the real meaning of the communication and the thought of the collision. Through the vivid language teaching communication by the teachers, the standard demonstration action as the medium, such as through the students' teaching practice and emotion, information interaction and reached consensus on physical education teaching, students are no longer passive material by education, but views of the main body, is the important composition of teaching resources and generate, is the chooser and revision of the teaching content.

Democratic Equality

In the symbiotic relationship between teachers and students "democratic equality embodies the fairness of education and human, teachers give each student equal rights, the equality reflects the physical education teachers and students on the personality and the spirit of equality. The different characteristics of physical education teaching from other subjects are to practice more. Teachers and students easily build a relaxed, harmonious relationship between teachers and students through practice, games and competition. Communication is no longer a teacher of physical education teaching above the students go to call the shots, but students and teachers as a group of individuals in a joint inquiry related knowledge, technical skills in the field of mutual dialogue, in the process of cooperation with each other.
THE ADVANTAGES OF "SYMBIOTIC RELATIONSHIP BETWEEN TEACHERS AND STUDENTS" IN SPORTS TEACHING

With the rapid progress in science and technology, great changes have taken place in the human production and living ways. Man's way of life to liquidate more prominent for the existence of "symbiosis", the establishment of the "symbiotic relationship between teachers and students" is the meaning of life to the student individual, improve the quality of the survival of the individual, in the sports teaching guided by the idea of more "focus on life, respect for life", his focus is through the teachers of physical education teaching, students' understanding of the life value and meaning more in place[4]. Physical education teachers in the teaching, we must give full consideration to all kinds of different interests and needs of students, to student's body and mind full scale development as the center, through to the students of physical education curriculum, make the students not only to master the scientific knowledge, technology, skill structure, the formation of the comprehensive ability quality, but also let them form a good character, strong social adaptation ability, improve the physique, especially in order to enhance self-confidence and sense of responsibility as the core of the emotion, attitude and values.

CONCLUSIONS

When we stand on this side of the new physical education curriculum reform ahead in the other side of the quality education, we realize soberly: education teaching reform depends on teaching concepts, fundamental transformation, followed by changing teaching concepts. So, this paper set up the new relationship between teachers and students the concept of the "symbiotic relationship between teachers and students", for the physical education workers to open a new way of thinking on knowledge to understand the relationship between teachers and students, to promote the reform of physical education provides the theoretical support.
